A black and white photograph of a large, ivy-covered building, likely a school or institutional structure. The building features a series of arches along its ground floor and several dormer windows on its steeply pitched roof. The ivy is dense and covers most of the visible walls. The sky is cloudy.

"If I could make days last forever,
If words could make wishes come true,
I'd save every day like a treasure . . ."

The 1977 Shield staff presents . . .

The Annie Wright Shield

All of these and more-old books,
Old loves, old friends, all are dreams . . .
Dreams I have loved,
And dreams I have remembered.

-George Draut

This year's Senior class gratefully dedicates the 1977 Shield to the wonderful lady who shared our dreams
and led us to new, ones . . .

O to make most jubilant song
Full of music-full of manhood, womanhood, infancy!
Full of common employment-full grain and trees.

O for the voices of animals-O for the swiftness and balance of fishes
O for the dropping of raindrops in a song!
O for the sunshine and motion of waves in a song.'

O the joy of my spirit it is uncaged it darts like lightning!

I will have thousands of globes and all time.

The brown grass of autumn bends under his hooves,
Surrounding the yew trees on wooded hunt grounds,
The dark trees whence the black ravens come,
Croaking of things unremembered as yet:
By Morringan, this life is short; thudding hooves
And blooded wine as one thinks of the hounds
That turn white in the moonlight, the drum
Of a roe buck, and the cry of the lapwing and ancient Hecate.

As hours turn into days, and days to years, the past shows us how we have changed; how we have grown. The future holds for us a challenge, reaching beyond, up to those distant stars, out to the highest peaks. Growing and changing to meet those demands with determination, integrity, and hope for a better world. We each must walk our way alone; when at last this day is done, searching for higher mountains beyond the setting sun. And on some bright tomorrow, we'll meet again to share our days. Meeting. . . but to part again, yet to meet again always.

Activities

Lack of participation, or to make no effort is a cancer that will destroy a creative mind. Man has a natural desire to compete, but in every race there must be one winner out of many contestants, and one who comes in last. The importance is not who was first or last, it is the fact that you tried. So it is in any artistic or intellectual endeavor, the importance isn't whether you are totally successful or whether you failed - you participated, and in doing so, you learn the meaning of life.
